Strike Halts Nuclear Sub Construction

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators appeared near settlement today of the 2-day flight engineers' strike against Eastern Air Lines.

Representatives of the Flight Engineers International Association were reliably reported close to agreement on the basis of a company offer made to the union Tuesday.

The airline, in making the offer said that if the union had not accepted by 6 p. m. EDT today, the carrier then would seek to come to terms with individual engineers and try to put its grounded planes into the air.

The main stumbling block to a settlement reportedly was the union's insistence on an irrevocable guarantee from the government that if engineers took pilot training, as the airline proposed, the government would prevent any forced inclusion of the engineers in the Air Line Pilots Association.

The engineers were reported seeking a more precise guarantee along this line than the government had provided in a tentative settlement worked out for Trans World Airlines engineers.

Other elements of Eastern's settlement offer to the striking engineers were reported acceptable to the union.

July 31 Is Deadline on Excise Tax

Robert C. Grubbs Jr., Arkansas District Representative, Internal Revenue Service, Texarkana, today reminded taxpayers who are required to file quarterly federal excise tax returns, that July 31, 1962, is the deadline for filing returns, and paying the tax due for the calendar quarter ended June 30, 1962.

Mr. Grubbs said taxpayers who are liable for more than $100 of the excise taxes listed on Form 720 for any month (except the third month of a quarter) are required to deposit their full payments of these taxes in local authorized banks, or a Federal Reserve Bank, before the last day of the month following the month in which the tax liability occurred.

Taxpayers making such timely deposits have an additional 30 days, or until August 10, 1962, in which to file their Forms 720, he added. He said validated Federal Depositary Receipts must be submitted with the returns filed.

He added that returns should be addressed and mailed to "District Director, IRS, Little Rock." Copies of the form and information can be obtained by contacting any IRS office.

Many Take 2-Day Course in Medicine

The following persons have attended two days of the medical self-help training course which is being held at the Hempstead County Health Unit. This course will end Monday, July 23. Certificatees will be given the people who completed the full three day course.

Parents of Chained Boy Censured

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — The parents of an 8-year-old boy who was found with his legs chained together have been given 30-day suspended jail sentences and told to take better care of their 17 children.

County Judge Bart Peak handed down the sentences Wednesday to William and Ruth Hayes.

Peak said Mrs. Hayes admitted she padlocked a heavy chain from a porch swing around the ankles of her son Larry, on July 10 and left him at home while she visited a doctor. The boy was found by the father of a police officer, standing in the middle of a street. "I did it to keep him out of trouble," Mrs. Hayes testified. The father denied any knowledge of the incident.

El Dorado Marine Dies in Crash

KINGSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Marine Corps Pilot Franklin Taylor of El Dorado, Ark., was killed Wednesday when his jet crashed near an auxiliary landing field at Orange Grove, 30 miles northwest of here.

Taylor was alone in the trainer and was approaching the south Texas landing field when the accident occurred.

Taylor was stationed at the hospital in Hyannis, attendants

Force Only Language Reds Respect

Note to Editors: This is the conclusion of a two-part series based on an exclusive interview with Gen. Lucius D. Clay.

By SAUL PETT
AP Staff Writer

The man who broke the Stalin era blockade of Berlin warns that the Kremlin must understand and believe the West will resist with force if the Russians go too far in their drive to evict the Allies.

"Unless we make them understand where they are going to be met with resistance, one of these days they're going to go too far and we're going to have no choice but war," says Gen. Lucius D. Clay, President Kennedy's special representative to Berlin.

But Clay is optimistic that war can be prevented and that some day—he puts no date on it—there will be a reunited, free Germany. Clay's views are set forth in an exhaustive question-and-answer exploration of the perennial Berlin crisis, once again pushed into the headlines by Premier Khrushchev's demands.

This is the second of two sections of the exclusive interview with The Associated Press.

Q. General, before you went over last September you said you thought there might be some room for give and take toward a Berlin solution. You made clear you felt this might be an area not involving our basic rights. Do you still feel that way?

A. I think there is room. If the pride of the regime running East Germany is so involved in policing the highways that they would insist on taking over this responsibility from the Soviet troops now doing it, then there is a possibility this could be made an international highway. If it could be set up under international police with complete freedom of movement on the highway, except as controlled by international police for both Allies and Germans, I would think this would be a trade we could well accept.

Q. Has this area been explored? A. This is one of the areas which we have been exploring, I am sure, with our allies. It has not yet been explored with the Soviet government because the talks have not progressed to that degree.

Q. Is the West prepared to react instantaneously to any new Soviet aggressive move?

A. The machinery to get prompt Allied reaction has been greatly improved. And for a great many contingencies there could be and would be instant reaction. There are still fields in which the contingency planning does not cover immediate action in Berlin. These are in the cases which are so

Art Show Sunday in Texarkana

Texarkana artists will have an art exhibit Sunday, July 22, on the lawn of the Howard Johnson Motel. The exhibit will be open to the public and the hours are 1 p. m. until 6:30 p. m.

There will be no admission charge and the viewers will have the opportunity to vote on their favorite painting. A painting will be given away to one of those attending the exhibit during the afternoon.

Girl Falls 2,000 Feet When Parachute Fails to Open; Is Saved by Water

MARSTONS MILLS, Mass. (AP) — Petite, blonde Lois Ann Froten, 20, with one leg partly entangled in the sleeve of her parachute, hurtled earthward nearly half a mile late Wednesday — and survived — when she landed in a lake.

At Cape Cod Hospital, Hyannis, the outlook for her recovery was described as good today. It was the first airplane leap by the slender Hyannis telephone operator and, she said, her last. LaRoche, flew from the air strip "I'll never jump again," she gasped as the rescuers lifted her from Mystic Lake in a condition of semi-shock and hysteria.

Witnesses said that as the girl tumbled end-over-end through the air, the entangled sleeve of her chute disengaged about 100 to 150 feet above the water and partly opened the chute. Its brief drag may have saved her life. If an parent was enough to straighten her position so that she struck the water feet first, in a startling, pack but failed to pull the emergency rip cord.

But during her plunge — apparently the muddy bottom of

3,000 Hear Candidates, Eat Chicken

By AL DOPKING

MT. NEBO, Ark. (AP) — The age-old arts of eating fried chicken and talking politics were mingled Wednesday night atop an Arkansas mountain.

Some 3,000 persons came to Mt. Nebo State Park to consume a ton and a half of chicken and hear gubernatorial candidates launch a full scale attack against a fifth term governor.

It was shirt-sleeve weather for both candidates and audience.

They heard everybody in the race except Gov. Orval E. Faubus, who arrived early, shook hands with as many constituents as possible then left for a five-county political rally at Monticello.

Dale Alford came with the impression he was to speak at 6 p. m. and would have time to make a scheduled talk at Lonokey two hours later. He wasn't able to speak until 6:50 p. m., but still made it to Lonokey to address an enthusiastic crowd of 200 who waited 1½ hours to hear him.

Sid McMath, Kenneth Coffelt, Vernon Whitten and David A. Cox each took their turns at the rostrum, all but Cox declaring there would be at least a runoff for governor; each vowing that he was the man to be in the governor's seat.

Cox told the audience that from what he hears, there will be no runoff.

"I hear the Republicans are going to vote for Cox. I also hear the Negroes are gonna vote for Cox and them farmers are going to vote for Cox. If this is true, there won't be any runoff," he said.

Alford charged again that Arkansas was faced with the most powerful political machine in its history and said the Faubus administration had fallen under control of bond dealers, utility interests and wholesale liquor dealers.

Alford said that in his own campaign and in the governor's office, he wanted to do something positive—to put Arkansas back on a sound governmental footing.

He said he once stood politically with Faubus, but thinks now that "five terms are just too many." McMath vowed the state Democratic Central Committee would not enforce its ruling on voters adhering to party lines during the July 31 primary, because they know it is a felony to interfere with a person's right to vote.

He repeated his pledge of emphasizing the hard surfacing of rural roads if he is elected governor. The state's primary and secondary roads are in good shape now, he said, and the next step should be surfacing of school bus and mail route roads.

He charged that the state has lost as much as $21 million in federal road funds because it failed to help counties match government allocations. The state, he said, is in a position to match these funds and the people are entitled to it.

McMath proposed to begin a $6-million a year road program, taking advantage of federal funds. He said his proposal would not violate the Mack-Blackwell Amendment and the money would not be handled by county judges. It would be under the U.S. Public

Dilemma Is Posed by Tax Cut Plan; Could Result in Recession Either Way

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's aides are polling congressional Democrats on their attitude toward a possible immediate tax cut to cushion the economy.

Confirming that such a canvass is under way in the Senate, Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said in an interview the results thus far have been mixed. Mansfield said he is certain Kennedy has made no decision on whether to request a reduction in levies. But he added the President obviously is interested in knowing in advance what reception he could expect if such a request were made.

"This late in the session, it would be a difficult thing to manage," Mansfield said. Kennedy is said to be reluctant to acknowledge any such adverse trend in the economy as a tax reduction request would signal. Beyond that he is said to feel that if a request were made and rejected, the reaction could invite a recession that might otherwise be avoided.

As politically incredible as it may seem in an election year, Congress appears far from eager to vote a tax cut. There prevails at nearly all levels some apprehension about how the voters will react to continued high spending and a ballooning deficit.

Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., stands athwart the portal of the tax-handling Senate Finance

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Little Rock and Dardanelle beauties walked off with honors in first-night preliminary judging at the "Miss Arkansas" pageant Wednesday.

Judy Lee Wheeler, "Miss Little Rock," charmed the audience of some 1,000 with a French aria to win the talent division. Scarlett Cornwell, a Dardanelle beauty, won the swimsuit division. Preliminary winners are not named in the third division of the event, in which contestants appear before judges in evening gowns.

Miss Wheeler, a 19-year-old, 5-4 blonde who studies at Baylor, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Wheeler of Little Rock. Miss Cornwell, whose talent specialty is ballet, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. G. S. Cornwell. She is a student at the University of Arkansas.

Tonight, the role will be reversed for the 48 contestants. Those appearing Wednesday night in bathing suits will be placed in one of the other two divisions and vice versa.

By Friday night, each will have completed in all three categories. Ten semifinalists will be named Friday night. This number will be cut to five just before final judging Saturday night.

The pageant was officially opened Wednesday afternoon by a parade with the contestants riding in convertibles. The parade also featured Marie Beale Fletcher of North Carolina, "Miss America," and Mary Lee Jepsen, who is "Miss Nebraska."

The new "Miss Arkansas" will be crowned by Frances Jane Anderson of Pine Bluff, who has held the state title for the past year. Pine Bluff entrants have won three of the last four contests. Claudette Smith won in 1960 and Sally Miller in 1958.

New Owners in Expansion at Crossett

CROSSETT, Ark. (AP) — Future plans of the Crossett Co., now owned by the Georgia Pacific Corp., include construction of more sawmills in southern Arkansas and a plywood plant at Crossett, officials said Wednesday.

Georgia Pacific executives, including Robert Pamplin, president, and John Brandis, executive vice president, were in Crossett to discuss the future of the newly acquired Crossett Co.

Pamplin said Georgia Pacific would be a member in good standing of the community.

He said expansions are planned for the Crossett Co., but not in the immediate future. Brandis said the company plans to continue the present policy of sustaining the timber yield, but because the ratio of timber now being grown to the timber being cut was unbalanced, additional sawmills would be needed.

He said there would be no change from the Crossett policy of having logging operations done by small contractors.

Revival at Oak Grove on Sunday

Oak Grove Methodist Church will have a revival meeting beginning with the morning service Sunday, July 22 at 11 a. m. with the Rev. John Walker bringing the message. Services will be held each night Monday through Friday at 7:30. Oak Grove Church is located two miles off the Rosston highway.

Weisenberger Injured in Car Accident

Royce Weisenberger, prosecuting attorney of the Eighth judicial district and candidate for chancellor judge, was injured in an automobile accident near Texarkana Wednesday night while returning home from a political rally at Doddridge, South Miller county.

Mr. Weisenberger was taken to St. Michael's Hospital in Texarkana for treatment and was undergoing examination there today. He is in Room 325 at the hospital and will be there for several days, it is expected.

The prosecutor's accident occurred about 10:30 Wednesday night on U.S. Highway 71 six miles south of Texarkana. He is believed to have been blinded by the lights of an approaching car, lost control of his own vehicle in loose gravel on the shoulder of the road and skidded over an embankment into a creek bed.

State Patrolmen Dwight Pankey and Wiley Parham of the Arkansas State Police investigated the accident.

Tolleson Is Manager of Electronics

T. C. DeBlase, General Manager of Standard Generator Plant of St. Louis, Mo., announced to the Chamber of Commerce today a change in management at the local Electronics Enterprise Plant, a subsidiary of the Standard Generator Plant. Bob Tolleson, assistant manager of the local plant since last October has been appointed as manager replacing James Smith.

Mr. Tolleson, a native of Silem Springs, has been an employee of the company for the past 18 months and was with the St. Louis plant prior to his transfer in October, 1961. He and his family reside at 109 West 16th.

Mr. DeBlase told C of C officials that the local plant would continue to increase manufacturing facilities in order to supply the expanding business in the Western and Southwestern states. He indicated that his company was thinking in terms of additional floor space that will also become necessary in the expansion plans.

"Company management feels that recent changes and those planned for the future is in the best interest of the local community and the company," said Mr. DeBlase. He was accompanied to Hope by Jack Strick, manager of the St. Louis plant.

Chas. Reynerson Funeral 2 Friday

Funeral services for Charles Reynerson will be held Friday at 2 p. m. at First Baptist Church with Rev. George Valentine officiating. Burial will be in Memory Garden.

Slander Suit on Trial in Circuit Court

The slander suit of Mrs. Gracie Dunlap against Rev. Lacie Rowe, pastor of the Gospel Lighthouse Church, got underway in Hempstead Circuit Court this morning. W. S. Atkins is attorney for Mrs. Dunlap, and Albert Graves represents Rev. Rowe.

The plaintiff's case this morning was presented by two witnesses, Mrs. Dunlap and City Patrolman Carl Ward.

Mrs. Dunlap testified that Rev. Rowe had accused her of living in adultery. The plaintiff, a member of the preacher's congregation, said Rev. Rowe came to her house twice to remonstrate against her marriage to H. M. Dunlap, which occurred Dec. 28, 1959.

Mrs. Dunlap further testified that in January 1962, after her marriage, a meeting of the church congregation was called to vote on whether or not to expel her from church membership. She said the vote was 9 to 3 against her.

The next witness for the plaintiff was City Patrolman Carl Ward, who testified that Rev. Rowe had asked for police protection in the event to trouble at the congregation's Bureau of Roads.

The judges, he said, would only select roads for the project and help get rights-of-way.

Whitten charged that the Faubus administration has foreseen political trouble ever since a $60 million bond issue it backed failed.

Whitten, like all the others except Cox, said there would be a runoff, but he believed Faubus would lead the ticket in the first primary.

He accused the Faubus administration of attempts to circulate character assassination rumors.
Faubus, he said, tried to intimidate that he (Whitten) had been fired by the state police at Helena 20 years ago.

He said at the time the charge was made Porter Young, Helena newspaper editor, stood up to repudiate it. He quoted Young as saying, "That's one lie that might have been left untold."

Despite attempts during the day to preserve his voice, Coffelt appeared hoarse at the rally. He said he has already visited 34 communities in the state and plans to go to 60 more before the primary date.

Coffelt said he could not compete with Faubus, McMahon or Alford in campaign expenditures.
He said if the governorship was for sale he couldn't buy it.

He poked fun at campaign booklets issued by Alford, terming them "funny books," and said if Alford were elected his hands would be tied "lock, stock and barrel." He termed McMahon the "most repudiated" governor in the state's history and said he (Coffelt) is the only man in the race who can beat "the fifth term candidate."

"You say you want a new deal,"
he said. "I promise to carry one out."

Cox drew a round of laughter
when he charged that, "Sid educated Orval and Orval educated Dale. Now they're having a fight over who is the smartest."

He said his number one proposal is restoring the good name of the state and joined the other candidates in saying he thought five terms is too long for any governor.

At Hazen earlier in the day, Alford told an audience he saw little to choose from between Faubus and McMahon. He said many of the "governor makers" who backed McMahon's third term bid jump again.

Later, she asked: "What did I do wrong?"

Fellow members of the sky diving unit of which Miss Frotten was a member said she apparently forgot to pull the ripcord of her emergency chute when the automatic chute failed to function properly.

Miss Frotten, whose home is in Brewster Mass., is a telephone operator in Hyannis.

close to the instance which would cause war as to require perhaps a period of pause and consideration before instant action. But I would say that by and large the ability of the Allies to react in Berlin is better now than it has been for many years. I would think that if there were any real tampering with the movement of goods to and from Berlin and of Germans to and from Berlin, that before we use a physical means we would resort to economic blockades rather than aggressive action. The intensity of what we would do would of course depend somewhat on the intensity of what they did. But I think you can appreciate the fact if the Allies wanted to respond to a blockade of Berlin with a massive blockade of the Communist countries it could be a very effective and tremendous tool.

Q. What sort of move on their part would bring a more serious reaction on our part—in other words, war?

A. You've got to differentiate between the moves to blockade Berlin and, by attrition, to cause it to fold up. The latter would require months of action and could be met, at least in its initial stages, with counter measures in the economic and blockade field.
On the other hand if you have got a physical move into Berlin by either East German or Soviet troops, or by infiltration, if you've got the use of physical forces to stop Allied movements on the highways, then you would have a situation in which it would seem to be our response would almost have to be physical.

Q. As the President's personal representative in Berlin, did you have any difficulty reaching him, getting his ear?

A. None whatsoever. . . Things which I considered important enough to go to the President I not only reached him quickly; I also had his support. . .

Q. There were moments of such urgency that you did pick up the phone and call the President directly?

A. A few. There were not very many.

Q. Generally, you feel that you and the administration are in agreement on Berlin policy?

A. (Long pause) Well, I would like to express it a little differ-ently. The general policy of the administration and the commitments as expressed by the President to my mind represent a stand on the part of the United States of which we can be very proud and which if we maintain, will, I'm sure, save Berlin and Europe.
Now I must explain right now that some of these commitments which we have made have not been made—at least not publicly
—by all the members of the Alliance. I would hope that the views of the United States can be made to prevail in the Alliance.
This is one of the things that is very difficult for our own people to understand. We have a position of our own. But we cannot break up the Alliance to maintain our position.

Q. In the areas where you did disagree with some of your colleagues on the Berlin situation, did
it follow a pattern where generally you found yourself favoring stronger action or reaction than they did?

A. Well, I think it would be very difficult for me to say that it didn't follow that kind of pattern
because it's too well known that my own views have been that we must always take a strong stand
in dealing with the Soviet government, a stand which they can understand and believe. Now this is to me essential to prevent war because unless we make them understand where they are going to be met with resistance, one of these days they're going to go too far and we're going to have no choice but war. Therefore I think we have to make them understand that any step they take over a special line—of course, this is getting down to a much clearer
definition than actually exists—
that it means they're going to be met with force, that they can only cross that line by using force. If we can establish that understanding then I think war is most unlikely. I think that we have in our minds pretty well drawn that line. But I'm not too sure that the entire Allied organization accepts the same line.

Q. Is there any possibility of the wall coming down now short
of meeting Moscow's demands?

A. No, I don't think so. If it did come down, there would be a mass migration from East Germany into West Germany. This is something that would destroy completely the Ulbricht regime
and the East German economy.

Q. Looking far into the future,
what do you think ultimately will
be the status of Berlin?

A. Well, West Berlin has now
lived for 17 years behind the Iron Curtain. Since 1947 it has lived in an atmosphere of a Communist regime. In that period, it has grown and prospered and become again a great city. It has been able to do this for 15 years. I see no reason why it shouldn't continue to live and prosper as a free city until there is a final solution even though it takes a great many years. Ultimately, it seems to me that with peace in the world there is certain to come
a day when we have a reunified
Germany, reunified in the new sense of a free and democratic Germany as has developed in the Federal Republic. Now when and how this will come about is certainly something that I would not want to prophesy. . .

in 1952 were backing Faubus now and probably would go back to McMahon if he is elected.

"These millionaires have fixed it so that no matter who (Faubus or McMahon) wins, they won't lose," he said. At Lonoke he told his audience he first ran for Congress in opposition to federal tyranny in sending troops to enforce integration at Little Rock.

"I am now opposing tyranny at the state government level," he said.

The heavy overtones of political thunderings were brightened by the appearance of Arkansas beauties.

leagues on the Berlin situation, did
it follow a pattern where generally you found yourself favoring stronger action or reaction than they did?

A. Well, I think it would be very difficult for me to say that it
didn't follow that kind of pattern
because it's too well known that
my own views have been that we must always take a strong stand
in dealing with the Soviet government, a stand which they can understand and believe. Now this is to me essential to prevent war because unless we make them understand where they are going to
be met with resistance, one of these days they're going to go too
far and we're going to have no
choice but war. Therefore I think
we have to make them understand that any step they take over
a special line—of course, this is getting down to a much clearer
definition than actually exists—
that it means they're going to be met with force, that they can only cross that line by using force. If we can establish that understanding then I think war is most unlikely. I think that we have in our minds pretty well drawn that line. But I'm not too sure that the entire Allied organization accepts the same line.

Q. Is there any possibility of the wall coming down now short
of meeting Moscow's demands?

A. No, I don't think so. If it did
come down, there would be a
mass migration from East Germany into West Germany. This is something that would destroy
completely the Ulbricht regime
and the East German economy.

Q. Looking far into the future,
what do you think ultimately will
be the status of Berlin?

A. Well, West Berlin has now
lived for 17 years behind the Iron Curtain. Since 1947 it has lived in an atmosphere of a Communist regime. In that period, it has grown and prospered and become again a great city. It has been able to do this for 15 years. I see no reason why it shouldn't continue to live and prosper as a free city until there is a final
solution even though it takes a great many years. Ultimately, it seems to me that with peace in
the world there is certain to come
a day when we have a reunified
Germany, reunified in the new
sense of a free and democratic Germany as has developed in the Federal Republic. Now when and how this will come about is certainly something that I would not want to prophesy. . .

Walter-Hammons Exchange Vows

Miss Beryl Judith Hammons became the bride of Lt. John W. Shafer in an impressive double ring ceremony at the First Methodist Church Sunday, July 15 at 4 p.m. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Foy Hammons and the late Mr. Hammons, and the groom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Cecil W. Shafer of Little Rock. The Rev. Rufus Sorrells of Hope and the Rev. Robert A. Regnier of Little Rock read the ceremony. The bride wore a white street-length dress with matching silk organza.

santhemums. The flowers were a memorial to the bride's father, Miss Marilyn Welsh of Little Rock, cousin of the bride, lighted the candles. Pre-nuptial music was furnished by Mrs. B. C. Hyatt, organist.

Given in marriage by her brother, Foy Hammons Jr., of Charlotte, N.C. the bride wore a traditional wedding gown of champagne lace fashioned with a long fitted bodice. The round neckline was edged with an illusion yoke accented with lace medallions. Long, fitted sleeves ended in tiny points over the hands. The full skirt swept into a chapel train. The headpiece of pearlized orange blossoms held in place a full illusion veil. The bridal bouquet of fleur de' amour was centered with a yellow gladiolus. Mrs. Robert A. Regnier of Little Rock served as matron of Honor. She wore a yellow street-length dress with matching silk organza.

overskirt. With the short-sleeved dress she wore a small round hat with a circular off-the-face veil and carried bronze chrysanthemums.

The bride's other attendants, dressed identically to the honor attendant and also carrying bronze mums, were her sister, Mrs. R. H. Herod Jr., of Richardson, Tex., and Miss Helen Troy Hammons, and her sisters-in-law, Mrs. Foy Hammons Jr. of Charlotte, N.C., and Mrs. J. D. Hammons, Huntsville, Ala.

Capt. Jerome Russell served as best man. He, the groom, and other members of the wedding party who are army personnel, are stationed at Ft. Hood, Texas. Grooms men who also served as ushers were Maj. Pulnam Monroe, Capt. Lyndon Pearson, Capt. John Weaver, Robert Farrell of Little Rock, and J. D. Hammons of Huntsville, Ala., brother of the bride.

After vows were exchanged, the couple knelt at the altar rail while they were given communion. Then, from the balcony was heard The Lord's Prayer, sung by Paul O'Neil, accompanied by Mrs. Hyatt.

For her daughters' wedding, Mrs. Hammons wore a dress of sky blue lace with matching accessories. Mrs. Shafer, mother of the groom, wore pink with pink and white accessories. Each had a white gladiolus corsage pinned at her shoulder.

A reception followed at the Hope Country Club. Guests were greeted at the door by Miss Beryl Henry of Benton, who introduced the receiving line. It consisted of the wedding couple, Mrs. J. D. Welsh, grandmother of the bride, Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Shafer of Little Rock, parents of the groom, and members of the wedding party.

Mrs. M. M. McCloughan headed the house party for the reception, held in club rooms decorated with chrysanthemums, daisies and candles. The serving table was covered with a white lace cloth over a background of gold satin. Tapers in silver candleabra and a wedding cake encircled with the bridesmaids' bouquets were on the table with the punch bowl. Mrs. E. P. Young Jr., served the cake and Miss Susie Draper of Little Rock poured the punch.

Miss Regins Jaworski of Little Rock had charge of the bride's book. Those assisting in serving were Mrs. Crit Stuart Jr., Mrs. John B. Gardner Jr., Mrs. Mitchell LaGrone, all of Hope, Mrs. Clyde Hord of Marked Tree and Miss Mary Micholale of Little Rock.

For travel the bride chose a green gold dress with matching jacket. Gold colored accessories and the yellow gladiolus from her bouquet completed her attire.

After a wedding trip to the Ozarks, the couple will be at home in Kileen, Texas.

Lake Rights Cause Family Cold War

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: All my life I have dreamed of owning a small lake, just as some people dream of owning an island. I could picture it in my mind's eye: sapphire blue water, silvery fish breaking its mirror surface at twilight, mossy green banks shaded by weeping willows, and over all the enveloping peace of rural country. Every weekend my husband and I went lake-hunting.

Two years ago we found the lake of my dreams. True, the banks were covered with an undergrowth of briars, dead trees and poison ivy, but beneath spread the velvety green moss and above swayed the graceful, lacy willows. And there, sparkling like a jewel, gleamed the deep blue lake full of fish. We got it for a song. I have always worked hard and although scared to death of snakes and allergic to poison ivy, I reclaimed that lake, with the help of a hired man. It was my lake, bought and paid for by my husband and me. We camped on its shores and planned our home. Framed in its picture window would be the white birch grove opposite.

Imagine my horror when I awoke one morning to find a pig pen had replaced our sweet little birch grove. The man who lived in the neighboring farm house was responsible. A survey revealed he had built on our property. He sold his pigs but left the pen, then dumped carp and catfish into my lake. These marauders prey upon the silvery, fresh water fish.

People say since our neighbor "stocked" the lake, he should be allowed to use it. But it, as well as the surrounding land, is ours. This has mushroomed into a cold war between my husband and me. We quarrel constantly. He calls me selfish.

The ban who built the pig pen has noisy friends who play cards, drink and turn their children loose on land I cleared. I've lost all interest in what was a beautiful place to live. The basement of our house is built, a cabin finished and two acres completely cleared. There we're stopped. The pig pen stands to mock me. Things have got so uncomfortable at home I'm afraid to tear it down. My husband avoids that end of the lake. My dream has become a nightmare. Help me!

—Peggy
Dear Peggy: Before a disease can be cured it must be diagnosed. The cold war between you and your husband is a subconscious struggle for supremacy. The lake was your show. You dreamed it up. You cleared the land. You married that lake. Small wonder your husband digs in his toes and refuses to protect property to which you, in a sense, are wed.

Naturally the neighbors covet the beauty which you created. If they couldn't possess it, they would destroy it and so built the pig pen. Your best bet, if you want to save your marriage, is to take your husband and the neighbors into camp. Make preservation of the lake's beauty a community project instead of a one-woman enterprise.

Dear Helen: I disagree when you say broken homes make problems. It's been my experience that children thrown on their own by divorced parents develop into independent, self-sufficient and mature human beings. It's about like tossing a child into a swift stream and saying, "Sink or swim." Drastic yes, but also character-building. True, some children are the product of a broken home and doing very well. —No Problem.

Dear No: One shouldn't generalize. I've seen sensitive children go completely to pieces when their parents parted; especially if, loving the father, they were awarded to their mother. Or vice versa. Yet, on the other hand, if the parents had not divorced, these same children might have been eye witnesses to a murder. It's my belief that heredity is stronger than environment and that children, no matter how bad the surrounding conditions, will rise above them, provided they come of good stock.

Dear Helen: I dated one boy for a year. Now, by chance, I've met a new boy who fascinates me. As a result, my steady and I argue constantly. My parents side with him and say if I drop him, I must drop the other. As a consequence, I live in an atmosphere of friction and make everyone miserable. Being only 17, I don't want to get too serious about any boy, much less be forced into a hasty decision. Help! —Desperate
Dear Desperate: Don't let any-

Co-op to Refund $43,000 in Cash

BLYTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The Mississippi County Electrical Co. operative said Wednesday $43,000 in un-needed cash reserves will be refunded to persons who bought electricity from the co-op in 1948. The reserve fund was set up at that time, the co-op said, and has not since been needed. Checks will range from a few cents to $130.

Hot Springs Is Host to 48 Beauties

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — A colorful parade down Central Avenue in Hot Springs was to be the first feature of the 1962 Miss Arkansas Pageant today.

The record field of 48 girls were to board sun-kissed convertibles at 4 p.m. for the parade. Preliminaries in the swim suit, evening gown and talent divisions begin at 8 p.m., and the weather man predicts clear to partly cloudy skies for the opening at Oaklawn Park racetrack.

Maria Beale Fletcher of North Carolina, Miss America of 1962, will make a talk at each of the sessions tonight through Saturday. Mary Lee Jepsen, Miss Nebraska of 1962, arrived in Hot Springs Tuesday and will appear in the parade and at the preliminaries.

The field has been divided into three groups of 16 girls. Each group will compete in a different division each night. Miss Arkansas of 1963 will be named Saturday night from five finalists.

The contestants appeared on a "Miss Arkansas Preview" television show Tuesday night. This is the fifth year for the pageant to be held in Hot Springs. Now its permanent home. The Junior and senior chambers of commerce sponsor it. Bob Evans, executive director of the state Parks Commission, will emcee the pageant as he has the last four years.

With good weather, the chambers of commerce hope this year they will come out with a financial profit. In the last two years, pageants have been marred by bad weather, and in 1961 the pageant was delayed a day by rain.

The pageant has not left the sponsors in the red, but it has left them close to it. Oaklawn Park's seating is for 9,500 persons, but it can hold more. Some 1,500 tickets will be sold on a reserve seat basis, the remainder as general admissions. The pageant winner will receive a $1,000 scholarship to the college of her choice, and the four runners-up will receive from $200 to $600. The contestants will elect their own favorite—Miss Hospitality.

Child is Killed on Ferris Wheel

BRUNSWICK, Mo. (AP) — An 8-year-old girl was killed Wednesday night in a 32-foot fall from a ferris wheel a few minutes before it opened for business.

Debbie McCowan, of Windsor, Mo., died of a fractured skull. Marshal Carl Kistler said an 18-year-old boy, a member of the carnival troupe, was in the ferris wheel seat with Debbie when it tipped forward. Kistler said the boy grabbed the unfastened safety bar with one hand and the girl with the other, but Debbie fell from his grasp.

Imaginary Feud on Set in Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What fun to have Joan Crawford and Bette Davis working in the same picture. What good old-timey, real-pro, wonderful fun.

All you have to do is sit on the set of "Whatever Happened to Baby Jane?" and watch the sparks fly.

Davis: Of course you know, Joan, that everybody is going to try to work up a feud between us.

Crawford: I know, dear, and isn't it ridiculous—We're much too professional for anything like that.

Davis: Exactly. And who has time for such silliness? We'll be much too busy making the picture.

Crawford: Of course.

Davis: (gaffaw) You know what the word is around New York? That the situation is so bad that your dressing room is on one end of the stage and mine is at the other end. Now I ask you, look at those dressing rooms! (They were about 20 feet apart, on each side of the big stage door.)

Crawford: You know the only reason I'm over there is that I like to be near the cooler. It's probably too cold for you.

Davis: Oh no I adore it cold. I'm liable to move over there with you.

Crawford: And we'll end up the picture with our rooms side by side, fooling everyone.

Davis: I'll tell you one thing I hope this picture does: I hope it brings back women's pictures. The men have had it to themselves to long. But I must admit, we women had it pretty good for 15 years back there.

Crawford: We sure did. But now everything is war and destruction on the screen.

Davis: Isn't it criminal what has happened to pictures? And to Hollywood! When I was here a year ago, I sat around with some old friends and we tried to think of something that would liven the town up, create some excitement. But we couldn't think of anything.

Crawford: There's just no life here at all. I'm not much of a set visitor, but I dropped in on the sets at a studio recently and everyone was just blah. No life, no spark.

Davis: Well, they handed this town over to the agents long ago. There's no direction any more. You remember how you and I used to find stories and go around to producers trying to work up enthusiasm? I wouldn't know who to go to nowadays.

Crawford: I wouldn't either. There's no authority here at all. You take a script to a producer and the office boy reads it.

Davis: You're absolutely right. Nobody cares. The town is absolutely dead.

(Editor's note: Not as long as you two girls are here.)

Committee, determined to fight against any reduction which would further unbalance the budget.

While he may be somewhat more tractable, Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee remains to be convinced that a tax reduction is desirable at this time.

Moreover, Mills would be likely to lay down some conditions which would start the tax measure through Congress on an uncertain course.

For instance, Mills and his committee colleagues might insist that a withholding tax on interest and dividends be included in the bill to help make up for revenue losses. The House voted for this but Byrd's Senate committee knocked it out of a tax revision measure now before it.

In any event, a tax reduction would have to be made a temporary one if the administration later is to get the general overhaul of the revenue code it wants. Such an overhaul would need the sweetener of a permanent reduction to get anywhere.

head of the Senate Investigating subcommittee, said recently he believes that Marshall could not have shot himself.

The grand jury meeting at Franklin for nearly a month issued a report saying it could not overturn the suicide verdict issued originally by Justice of the Peace Lee Farmer, one of whose duties is that of coroner.

Dr. J. A. Jachimczyk, Hosston pathologist who conducted the autopsy, said he believes the death was murder but could not rule out suicide.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The former Southwest area head of the farm aid program testified today the late Henry Marshall fought Billie Sol Estes' cotton acreage allotments as an illegal scheme.

J. Taylor Allen of Provo, Utah, added that he backed Marshall's hand on the issue. A dairy farmer, Allen held the area farm post under the Eisenhower administration.

Marshall was program specialist in Texas for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Service at the time. He was found dead of five gunshot wounds in June 1961. An initial verdict of suicide was returned, but the Texas Department of Public Safety said today its investigation indicates he was murdered.

4th Bank in State Robbed in a Week

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Gillett branch of the De Witt Bank and Trust Co. became Wednesday the fourth such institution in a week to fall prey to robbers or thieves.

A man wearing a straw hat and dark glasses picked the noon closing hour of the bank, confronted Mrs. Dorothy Smith, manager, with a gun, took about $800 in bills, then locked her in the vault and fled.

Mrs. Smith was forced to stay in the vault for an hour and 35 minutes until the Gillett superintendent of schools came in to pay a phone bill. She said she heard him enter, and yelled from the ventilated vault for someone to free her.

The description given by Mrs. Smith fitted that of one of the men who robbed the Atkins bank of nearly $17,000 at gunpoint last Thursday. Two persons have been charged with robbery in that case, but police say it is yet unsolved. The money has not been recovered.

Tuesday, the Wheatley bank was robbed of $800. Burglars stole into the Leslie State Bank last Friday night and made off with over $4,100.

Authorities will not say whether they believe the rash of crimes connected. The state police, Federal Bureau of Investigation and other enforcement officers are working to solve the cases.

The latest robbery, by coincidence, occurred exactly a year to the day from the only bank robbery in the state during 1961.

On July 18 last year the Taylor branch of the First National Bank of Magnolia was robbed of about $7,000. The robber was caught and sentenced to prison.

Vote on Sunday Grocery Sales

MARIANNA, Ark. (AP)—A vote has been called in Marianna July 31, the date of the state Democratic primary, to determine whether residents want the sale of groceries banned on Sundays.

Allen told his story before the Senate Investigations subcommittee, which is exploring for evidence of any political influence connected with Estes' get-rich-quick manipulations of cotton acreage allotments.

Muff Costs Him No-Hit Ball Game

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee right-hander Bob Shaw gave himself a chance for a possible no-hitter against the slugging San Francisco Giants.

Although pleased with a 6-0 victory over the Giants Wednesday night, the 29-year-old Shaw berated himself for failing to come up with a grounder by Chuck Hiller in the third inning. It was the lone San Francisco hit before Hiller doubled in the ninth.

"I should have had that ball in the third easily," Shaw said. "It cost me a helluva shot at a no-hitter as I would have been more careful in the ninth and Hiller wouldn't have got a fast ball across the plate. Del Crandall and I would have planned pitches more carefully."

Shaw surrendered two walks in the first inning, then retired the Giants in order except for Hiller's hits. Shaw snapped a personal five-game losing streak and posted his 10th victory against seven losses.

Hiller's infield grounder caught Shaw off balance and rolled to the right of second base, where Frank Bolling made a desperate back-handed lunge. The ball rolled off Bolling's glove.

Arkansan Killed in Car Accident

CLINTON, Okla. (AP) — Clint E. Harris of Fayetteville was killed in a traffic accident 10 miles north of Clinton, Okla. Wednesday. The Highway Patrol said Harris' car went out of control as it approached an intersection, overturned and burned.

Ouachita Valley Tourney

CAMDEN, Ark. (AP) — R. H. Sikes, who won the National Public Links golf championship for the second year in a row Saturday, heads a good field of amateurs in the 15th annual Ouachita Valley tournament which opens at Camden Country Club Friday.

Qualifying rounds are set Friday, when many of the contestants will compete in a 900 pro-am tournament.

The championship flight tees off Saturday morning for four 18-hole rounds of match play, winding up Sunday afternoon.

Sikes won the tournament in 1959 and 1960 then M. C. (Sonny) Methvin of Little Rock won it last year by closing out Ralph Williams of Arkadelphia on the 13th hole of the final match. Methvin was six under par at the end.

The Ouachita Valley will be one of several tuneup events for Sikes as he gets ready for the National Amateur tournament in mid-September.

He beat Hung Soo Ahn of Hawaii Saturday 2 and 1 in the finals of the Publix in Buffalo, N.Y.

Al Raybord, pro at Camden Country Club, said Sikes called Tuesday and said he would enter, but Raybord said he had not heard whether Methvin would defend his title.

Also in the tournament will be twins Dick and Dan Murphy of Texarkana. Dick won the state amateur and Dan won the recent Four States Invitational tournament in Texarkana.

Rayford said Travis Creed and Richard McCauley of Pine Bluff and Toxie Bourn of Haynesville, La., also have entered.

Would Talk Down Russia on Berlin

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk plans to make a major effort at Geneva to get Russia to shelve its demands for withdrawal of U.S. British and French forces from West Berlin.

Rusk and President Kennedy are known to feel that if U.S. Soviet negotiations on the Berlin dispute can be moved beyond this issue, there may be some hope of at least getting an "agreement to disagree" and reduce the dangers of periodic East-West crises over Berlin.

Rusk is scheduled to leave for Geneva at midnight. He is due there Friday afternoon.

His immediate reason for making the trip is to join with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko and top representatives of a dozen other nations, including Red China, in signing accords on the neutralization of Laos.

But this ceremonial function will be overshadowed by the talks he and other Western foreign ministers have with Gromyko on Berlin and the equally deadlocked issue of nuclear testing.

The whole complex of disarmament problems, including a test ban, is now before a 17-nation disarmament conference at Geneva. But Rusk is expected to urge Gromyko that the Soviet government should reconsider its opposition to any kind of international inspection as a means of safeguarding disarmament agreements.

Chinese Reds Say Floods Are Over

HONG KONG (AP) — The Chinese Communists claimed today they have won a battle against floods in Kwangtung described previously as the worst of the century.

The Communist News, China News Agency said water levels of the North and West rivers have dropped below the danger lines.

The floods were caused by torrential rains in the upper reaches of the two rivers.

It is estimated there are 5,000 blind children in the U. S. today, victims of retrolental fibroplasia.

'Giant Ear' Telescope Is Obsolete

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — The world's biggest movable radio telescope has been declared obsolete even before it could take its first sounding in space.

In junking the project Wednesday the Pentagon cited zooming costs as well as rapid advances in space technology.

Since 1958, the government had spent $41.7 million of the $12.2 million voted by Congress for the research station at Sugar Grove, W. Va.

West Virginians, who planned to use "the big ear" as a tourist attraction during next year's centennial observance, kept a stiff upper lip.

The decision, said Gov. W. W. Barron, will "by no means" halt plans for a tourist project near the Pendleton County site in the state's eastern Panhandle.

And, said the West Virginia Centennial Commission, the telescope stays on its official emblem.

The Pentagon action had been rumored for more than a year. Meanwhile, the construction progressed to the point where access roads were built in remote areas, the site graded and the turntable completed.

The telescope, standing 700 feet high and weighing 50,000 tons, was to listen for signals from any life on other worlds.

Usable also as radar, the 600-foot, dish-like antenna was to be capable of mapping the surface of the moon, bounce signals off Mars and Jupiter and explore outer space in preparation for deep space probe experiments.

The Pentagon announcement said Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara decided to halt construction after an intensive study determined that the need for certain research "had been substantially reduced by major advances in science and technology."

Better ways have been found to do the work originally planned for the huge telescope, a Navy spokesman said. He added that security requirements prevented him from going into detail. The Navy had charge of the project.

Keeps Ball, So Kids Picket Him

PITTSBURGH Pa. (AP) — The youngster walked in front of the house with a sign which read: "Joe unfair to children."

He was one of about 30 boys and girls who picketed the home of Joseph A. Rosella in Pittsburgh's Brookline section Wednesday night because Rosella refused to return two footballs kicked onto his property.

"All we want is peace and quiet," Rosella told newsmen.

He said the children have been playing in front of his house for some time, kicking footballs on his property and making noise. He and his wife were ignored when they asked the youngsters to go to a nearby playground. Rosella said.

FCC Will Hear Case at KTAV

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission said Wednesday a hearing will be held at Pine Bluff on a proposal to move the transmitter of KTAV (Channel 7) to a site 12 miles west of Little Rock. Date of the hearing was not announced. The transmitter is now located 14 miles north of Pine Bluff.

Alford Good in Speaking From Stump

(Editor's note: John R. Starr, political writer for the Associated Press, is spending a campaign day with each of the candidates for Governor. He toured Tuesday with Rep. Dale Alford.)

By JOHN R. STARR
Associated Press Staff Writer

Rep. Dale Alford is campaigning for governor with as much enthusiasm as Billy Sunday ever pursued the Devil.

And Alford on the stump is a far different man from the person he appears to be on television.

Talking to a live audience, Alford waves, points, bends, cradles the microphone and paces the platform, weaving himself, his subject and his listeners into a tight knot of attention.

"Dale ought to make that kind of speech on television," said an aide, listening to him in Lonoke Tuesday night. "He's really getting through."

On television, Alford tends to appear stuffy, even arrogant at times. But there is no arrogance when he grabs a mike, looks at listeners in the eye and declares, "Friends, this is more than a campaign for governor. This is a crusade."

"The Holy Land is the governor's chair and the Saracen is Oval E. Faubus, a fifth term candidate."

"I supported the would-be ten-year governor," Alford declares with a waiver in his voice. "But he is not the same man we elected four times."

And he goes on to contend that Faubus has welded an all powerful, dastardly political machine and the future of Arkansas depends on breaking its grip.

He followed this line Tuesday in speeches at Hazen, Carlisle, Mt. Nebo, but about 200 patient persons waited until he arrived and gave him his best reception of the day.

Until the roadblock at Nebo, Alford's campaign ran right on schedule Tuesday. He spent the morning working on a speech for television Saturday and arrived in Hazen in time for ten minutes of handshaking before his 1 p.m. speech time.

Dressed in shirtsleeves, he spoke in the shade of an oak tree to a shirt-sleeved crowd of about 100. After the speech, he shook every hand in sight and moved on to Carlisle for lunch and 30 minutes of handshaking before his speech there.

At Carlisle, he spoke from the platform of his handwagon beneath a sun. A few children crowded around the platform, but most of his adult audience—again about 100 persons—gathered across the street under store canopies.

Alford flew to Russellville and ran into the first hitch of what turned into a hectic day. The car which was supposed to take him to Mount Nebo was not at the airport and it took a telephone call and a 15-minute wait to get transportation.

Alford arrived at Nebo expecting to speak at 6 p.m. That would have left ample time to fly back to Lonoke for a scheduled 8 p.m. rally. When he learned he probably could not speak until after 7 p.m., he had to decide—stay and address the 3,000 persons at the Mount Nebo Chicken Fry or go on to Lonoke.

After consultation with his aides, he decided to take the west of Little Rock. Date of the hearing was not announced. The transmitter is now located 14 miles north of Pine Bluff.

Angels Get Pitching Plus Hits

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

And suddenly they got pitching, too.

For nearly three months the Los Angeles Angels puzzled the baseball world by staying in the thick of the American League pennant race despite what must be rated one of the poorest pitching staffs ever pasted together.

Leon Wagner was hitting home runs, Albie Pearson was getting on base, Le Thomas was driving in runs, Billy Moran was fielding like Charlie Gehringer and manager Bill Rigney was pulling rabbits out of his baseball cap.

But the pitching... Ugh! Until a week ago, Rigney could get only 10 complete games from his pitchers in 85 starts.

But in the last seven games, four of seven starters went the distance and, wonder of wonders, two of them did it on successive nights.

Don Lee, who hadn't won since June 27, pitched a four-hit, 5-0 shutout over Detroit Wednesday night, just 24 hours after Ken McBride had blanked the Tigers on three hits. This enabled the Angels to stay within 3½ games of the first-place New York Yankees who shellacked the Boston Red Sox 12-4.

Minnesota, aided by an 11-run first inning that included two grand slam homers, trounced Cleveland 14-3 to tie the Indians for third place, 5½ games off the pace. Washington took a 1-0 decision from Chicago and Kansas City snapped Baltimore's six-game winning streak with a 5-2 triumph.

In the National League, Los Angeles' Dodgers widened their first-place lead to two games over San Francisco, defeating Cincinnati, 6-5 in 11 innings while Milwaukee was shutting out the Giants 6-0. St. Louis nipped Chicago 2-1 and Philadelphia beat Houston for the 11th straight time, 6-1. Rain the Mets in New York.

Home runs by Mickey Mantle, washed out a scheduled doubleheader between Pittsburgh and Yogi Berra and Bobby Richardson highlighted the Yankee 16th attack against four Red Sox pitchers. Mantle drove in four runs and Berra three. Rookie Jim Bouton yielded 11 hits, but coasted to his third triumph. Bill Monbouquette suffered his ninth defeat.

Grand slammers by Bob Allison and Harmon Killebrew featured the Twins' 11-run first inning during the 12th inning.

He spoke 12 minutes and raced for the airport, already two minutes late for his Lonoke engagement.

At 9:35, he arrived in Lonoke, expecting to shake a few hands and apologize to the few persons who might still be on hand.

But he misjudged the holding power of the Arkansans Quartet, which is accompanying him on the campaign, and his wife, who made a brief talk during the long delay.

The 200 who had stayed were in a good mood and they warmed to Alford as quickly as he pushed aside his rostrum, grabbed a hand microphone and began pacing from one end of the platform to the other, denouncing the Faubus administration and complaining because "I spend so much time answering untruths from the opposition that I don't have time to discuss my positive program for Arkansas."

The positive program, he told each audience, includes doubling turnback allotments for county road, elimination of state tax on money paid for federal income taxes, improved welfare benefits and more state recreational facilities.

The Lonoke crowd interrupted him three times with applause, first when he declared an uncompromising position on segregation and states rights and contended Faubus has changed his stand on this issue.

The next cheer came when Alford said he saw little to choose from between Faubus and another opponent, Sid McMath. He noted Faubus and McMath were once political allies and had, at one time or another, many of the same backers.

"Now they are spending most of their campaign time attacking each other," he said. "If one-third of what they say about each other is true, neither deserves to be in the governor's office."

But the loudest applause came when Alford said he ran for Congress four years ago in a protest against federal tyranny in the Little Rock integration crisis and he felt he was opposing the same kind of tyranny on the state level today.

After the Lonoke rally, Alford met key aides on a street corner for a final check on campaign plans for the next day. Well-wishers crowded around to assure him he would carry Lonoke County.

"And don't forget, Dale," an aide called as he climbed into a car. "You've got to be at the airport at 10 tomorrow."

BATTING — Frank Howard, Dodgers, hit a pair of two-run homers in 6-5 victory over the Reds. His first came with two out in the ninth, tying the score at 3-3, and his second in the 11th, capping a three-run rally.

PITCHING — Bennie Daniels, Senators, pitched a three-hitter to outduel Ray Herbert of the White Sox 1-0.

ing which seven of the 14 batters who faced pitchers Barry Latman and Jim Perry hit safely. Never before had a team hit two grand slammers in one inning. Earl Battey also homered in that frame.

Killebrew later added his second homer and 24th of the season. The Twins' 15-hit attack enabled Dick Stigman to breeze to victory. He fanned 11 of his former Indian mates.

Bennie Daniels, beaten 10 times in 12 previous decisions, pitched a three-hitter in a brilliant 1-0 hurling duel against Ray Herbert of the White Sox. Successive doubles in the ninth after two were out by Harry Bright and Chuck Hinton accounted for the game's lone run.

Bob Giggie, in his first major league start, not only outduelled Baltimore's Milt Pappas but got the tie-breaking run that ended the Athletics' seven-game losing streak. Giggie reached first on Jim Gentile's seventh inning error, was sacrificed to second and scored on Jerry Lumpe's single.

Cincinnati Knocked Off by Dodgers

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

When do you put the winning run on base intentionally?

Never, say the baseball purists. Well, almost never, says Los Angeles Dodger Manager Walter Alton. But when the guy has already hit two home runs...

Anyway, Alton ordered Gordie Coleman walked in the 11th inning of a hair-raiser Wednesday night against the Cincinnati Reds, with the tying run on second base. The move paid off in a 6-5 victory when Marty Keough bounced into a forecourt.

The win padded the Dodgers' lead in the National League to two games over the San Francisco Giants, who managed only two hits—both by Chuck Hiller—off Milwaukee's Bob Shaw and lost 6-0.

Cincinnati Manager Fred Hutchinson wished his hurlers had never pitched to Frank Howard. The lumbering outfielder hammered a two-run two-out homer in the ninth to tie the score and bashed another in the 11th for the two clinching runs. They nullified Coleman's two homers.

In other National League action the Philadelphia Phillies whipped the Houston Colts 6-2 and the St. Louis Cardinals edged the Chicago Cubs 2-1 as Bob Gibson pitched his third straight three-hitter.

A doubleheader between the Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Mets was rained out.

In the American League, the New York Yankees bombed the Boston Red Sox 12-4 to hold their 3½ game edge over the Los Angeles Angels, who beat the Detroit Tigers 5-0. Minnesota teed off for 11 runs in the first inning and beat the Cleveland Indians 14-3. Washington topped the Chicago White Sox 1-0 behind Bennie Daniels and Kansas City cooled off the Baltimore Orioles 3-2.

The Braves jumped on Juan Marichal for two in the first on Lee Maye's homer and added three in the third and one in the eighth off bonus rookie Bob Garibaldi.

Gibson, who ran his record to 12-1 lost his second consecutive shutout when Billy Williams homered in the fourth. The big right-hander struck out 12.

The Cards got both their runs off rookie Carl Keneo, who threw a one-hitter in his last outing, in the fourth on a bases loaded double by Ken Boyer.

A five-run first inning off starter Bob Bruce was all the Phillies needed for their 11th straight win over Houston, which has now lost 21 of its last 24 games. Dallas Green set down the Colts with six hits.

LEST WE FORGET

The People of Arkansas Will Never Forget These Scandalous Headlines Which Still Blot the Record of Sid McMath!!!

*There Have Been No Scandals in Your State Government Since

Since taking office in January, 1955, Governor Faubus has successfully extracted politics from the Highway Department. While Governor Cherry appointed all five members of the Highway Commission, Governor Faubus appointed only three of the present members of the Highway Commission. The Highway Department is no longer embroiled in politics. As a result, there are more highways being built correctly . . . more areas of Arkansas receiving long-overdue road attention . . . and more funds than ever before for carrying out a proper road and highway maintenance program. Under Governor Faubus the Highway Department has hard-surfaced 3,811 miles of roads. Never before has such a record number of miles been hard-surfaced in Arkansas in a comparable period of time. No, there have been no highway scandals in the Faubus administration. In fact, there have been no scandals involving any branch of your State government since Governor Faubus took office. Vote for Governor Faubus and his program of proven progress Tuesday, July 31st!

Cool Dining With Condensed Soups

Summertime . . . and it's time to keep cool, to relax, to be informal. Let canned condensed soups help you plan easy-on-the-cook meals. For a tempting chilled appetizer to a main dish salad, soup is a great standby.

Keep a can or two of several kinds in the refrigerator . . . black bean, celery, chicken, beef broth are good choices . . . ready to be blended with ice water at serving time for a cool refreshing first course.

When your main course presents a problem, serve a temptingly crisp and delightful salad of cabbage, shrimp, and pineapple dressed with a flavorful mixture of canned condensed cream of celery soup, lime juice, and curry powder. Perfect hot weather fare . . . served outdoors or indoors along with a selection of cheeses and party rye slices.

For dessert . . . cake squares (made from a mix or "store bought") topped with ice cream and chocolate sauce.

Cabbage And Shrimp Slaw Hawaiian

1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed cream of celery soup
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon lime juice
1 teaspoon curry powder
1 cup shredded cabbage
1 cup cooked cut-up shrimp
1/2 cup pineapple chunks
Salad greens
Tomato wedges
Toasted slivered almonds

In small bowl, blend soup, mayonnaise, lime juice, and curry powder; chill. Combine cabbage, shrimp, and pineapple; chill. Just before serving, toss lightly with salad greens; garnish with tomatoes and almonds. Makes 6 servings.

Federal Tax Yield Up 15% in Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Federal tax collections in Arkansas were up by 15 per cent during the past fiscal year, the Internal Revenue Service said Tuesday.

Collections rose from $243,782,183 to $280,236,880—a total of $36,454,697, the IRS said.

Fred W. Johnson, district IRS director, attributed the increase primarily to higher income and more jobs in the state. He said the emphasis of the IRS on compliance of all tax laws also was a factor.

Withholding taxes accounted for the largest share of the revenue, Johnson said. These, including both income and social security taxes withheld from paychecks, amounted to $135,091,509, compared to $121,477,369 during the 1961 fiscal year.

Income taxes paid on individual returns totaled $84,425,457, up from $73,284,635 the previous year. Johnson listed other totals, by collections for the past fiscal year and the year before, as:

Excise taxes: $16,572,000, $7,836,277.

Estate and gift taxes: $6,810,700, $5,290,000.

Carriers taxes: $177,184, $168,600.

Unemployment taxes: $1,043,673, $1,320,007.

Johnson said the large increase in excise taxes occurred because a firm in a neighboring state consolidated with an Arkansas corporation and began paying its excise tax in this state.

He said the IRS received 730,952 tax returns of various types during the past fiscal year, compared to 751,543 the previous year.

Soblem Cut Self to Win British Aid

By HAL COOPER

LONDON (AP)—Dr. Robert Soblen told the British high court today he knifed himself aboard a New York-bound airliner for the sole purpose of reaching British soil—and British justice.

In an affidavit supporting his fight against removal to America to face a life sentence as a Soviet spy, Soblen said he had no intention of committing suicide.

"The wound I inflicted on my wrist was longitudinal," he said. "Had I inflicted a circular wound across my wrist, I would have bled to death."

"Similarly, the cut in the abdomen ripped through the skin and belly muscles, but did not penetrate into the abdomen itself."

Soblen said he jumped his $100,000-bail and fled to Israel last month "because I was convinced of my own innocence of the counts against me, and because I felt that justice had not been done to me in the American courts."

"I further hoped that if I were able to enjoy my freedom a little longer, my innocence might be established."

Soblen was brought before the three-judge panel from Brixton Prison on a writ of habeas corpus seeking his release from the custody of the British Home Office. The British government claims he is a deportable alien in the country illegally.

If the court rules in the 62-year-old fugitive's favor, his lawyers plan to press his appeal to the Home Office for asylum as a political refugee. He is suffering from leukemia—incurable cancer of the blood—and his doctors say he has only a few months to live.

Israeli authorities refused to let Soblen stay in Israel and on July 1 put him aboard a chartered airliner bound for New York via Athens and London. With him were an Israeli doctor and U.S. Marshal James McShane.

The judges will decide whether to continue a writ of habeas corpus Soblen's lawyers obtained in a lower court. The British government contends he landed in Britain without permission and has to leave when recovered from the suicide attempt.

If Soblen is freed, he could leave for any foreign port. The espionage charge against him is not extraditable under the extradition treaty between Britain and the United States.

Presumably, however, only a Communist country would accept him since he does not have a valid passport. He made the flight to Israel on a dead brother's Canadian passport.

4 U. S. Men Survive Air Crash

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—All four U.S. Air Force crewmen aboard a two-engine transport that crashed Sunday were found alive late today.

A rescue helicopter was unable to land at the crash site in the mountainous terrain 150 miles northeast of here. But a sling lift was lowered, on which two of the survivors were lifted to a hovering craft and taken to a field hospital at the coastal town of Nha Trang.

Girl, 13, Drowns in Benton Lake

BENTON, Ark. (AP)—Jeanie Billingsley, 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Billingsley of Benton, drowned Monday in Lake Pauline here. The body was recovered in 12 feet of water after a five hour search.

One of the other two survivors apparently had a broken leg, and could not use a sling. The fourth survivor stayed on the ground with his companion, and medical personnel were lowered.

None of the four men was seriously injured, U.S. authorities said.

'Charge It' Fails Aboard a Railroad

NEW YORK (AP)—David Winston, 78, a rugged individualist pitted himself against the New Haven Railroad Tuesday. He lost but so did the railroad.

Winston, a retired stock broker who lives in Manhattan, boarded a New Haven train for Boston. When the conductor asked for his ticket, Winston informed him that he had none and had no intention of buying one.

Winston said that for years he has been traveling without tickets on railroads and airlines. He explained that he liked to be billed afterward, as in restaurants.

The conductor said the New Haven Railroad is not a restaurant.

Winston said he saw no reason why he couldn't charge his ticket.

The conductor asked Winston to leave the train. Winston refused. The conductor insisted.

Winston, according to the conductor, became "loud and boisterous."

The conductor called railroad police who took Winston to Manhattan arrest court where he was paroled pending trial next Tuesday on a charge of disorderly conduct.

His tiff with the conductor delayed the train to Boston 14 minutes.

Roller-Skate Crowd Sees Couple Wed

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—An Air Force sergeant and his wife returned to the place where they met to be wed Tuesday night—a roller rink.

And they were wed on skates.

The whole wedding congregation, bridesmaids, minister, everybody, was on skates.

The 33-year-old groom, Sgt. Howard Hynes of Houston, Tex., met his bride-to-be, Miss Billy Jean Simmons, 33, of Little Rock, at the rink eight months ago.

Tuesday night the couple wheeled up to an archway of pink flowers banked by large candelabra in the middle of the rink where Rev. James McAlister, pastor of St. Paul's Community Church, read the vows.

A dozen members of the skating club at the rink formed a wheeled walkway—skateway—through which the couple passed.

The couple said the wedding went off perfectly, except for a little difficulty encountered in kneeling for part of the vows.

Attenu Contract Let on Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Dale Alford, D-Ark., was notified by the Air Force Monday that Continental Consolidation Corp., Jacksonville, Fla., has been awarded a $2.2 billion contract to build antenna facilities at Titan II missile sites in central Arkansas. A complex of 18 missile launching sites currently is being built ringing Little Rock and the Little Rock Air Force Base.

New Mix Makes Refreshing Drink

A refreshing beverage is always welcome when family and friends come together for an evening of fun and good conversation. With an envelope of instant soft drink mix you can prepare a delicious thirst-quencher in a jiffy . . . and miss hardly a word. There's a wonderful new flavor combination out now—lemon-grape—sure to become a great favorite with everyone.

- Sparkling Amethyst Cooler
- 1 envelope lemon-grape instant soft drink mix
 - 1 cup sugar
 - 1 quart cold water
- Dissolve instant soft drink mix and sugar in cold water. Add ginger ale. Serve over ice. Makes about 2 quarts.
- *If desired, use lemon-grape ice cubes.
- To Make Lemon-Grape Ice Cubes—Prepare lemon-grape soft drink mix as directed on envelope. Pour into ice cube tray and freeze until hard.

Eastern Air May Let Out Its Strikers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Eastern Air Lines has fixed tonight as the deadline for settlement of a labor dispute which has grounded its planes for 2 days.

The announcement of a final contract offer came after a day of meetings Tuesday between representatives of the airline and the striking Flight Engineers International Association. More meetings were scheduled today in Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg's office.

Eastern said if the flight engineers union doesn't accept its offer by 6 p.m. it will be made individually to the flight engineers themselves for acceptance before next Tuesday.

The airline described its proposal as an offer "which requires specific time for its acceptance."

The new proposal defines the qualifications an engineer must have to serve as the third cockpit crew member on jet aircraft. It also calls for an approximate 11 per cent average pay increase plus an additional 3 per cent increase effective next April 1.

Eastern and other major jet carriers want to reduce the number of cockpit personnel from four—three pilots and an engineer—to three. The flight engineers have insisted that the third man be a flight engineer while the airlines want the third man to have pilot training.

Arms Plan Rejected by Russians

By LOYAL GOULD

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union in effect rejected today a British work plan designed to speed negotiations at the 17-nation disarmament conference.

Western sources said Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin criticized the proposal, which was presented Tuesday.

Zorin told the meeting he was willing to continue his study of the document together with U.S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean—co-chairman of the conference. But he insisted that the negotiation of disarmament issues continue as before, on the basis of rival American and Soviet plans.

His rejection of the British plan will seriously delay the negotiations and could lead to another deadlock on how the discussions should proceed, Western sources said.

Later today the conference was expected to turn to the four-year-old nuclear test ban issue, and the nonaligned nations were expected to appeal again for the major nuclear powers to agree speedily on a permanent test ban.

McCrory Votes for City Hall

MCCRORY, Ark. (AP)—Voters at McCrory approved a $20,000 bond issue Tuesday for funds to construct a city hall. The vote was 174 for the issue to 73 against.

The bonds will be repaid with funds obtained by rent of the building to city departments occupying it.

Space Age and Care of Babies

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An astronaut's way of feeding babies and a medical passport are health news items.

Space Division

Babies and mothers are promised a dividend from the space age.

Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., ate from a plastic squeeze tube, squirting food into his mouth, during orbit. Now, the same idea is being developed for no-mess, easy feeding of babies during travel by car or plane, or on picnics. Similar food tubes are equipped with a clear plastic, hollow-stemmed spoon attached to the tube.

Just the right amount of fruit, vegetable or other food can be squeezed into the spoon. A hermetic seal in the neck of the tube is punctured when the spoon is screwed onto the tube. Tube and spoon are disposed of afterward.

A baby food company is testing the squeeze tubes, originally developed by the American Can Company for feeding astronauts under weightless conditions of space flight.

Medical Passports

To ensure proper emergency medical treatment at home or abroad, you can carry a medical passport listing essential information which a doctor or hospital should know about your own health. The pocket-sized document can contain data on treatment for a heart condition, for diabetes, epilepsy, or other disorders, as well as giving your blood type, allergies, and results of X-ray and laboratory studies.

Published by the Medical Passport Foundation, Inc., New York, the passports are provided to physicians and hospitals at cost.

kindness to youths who were stranded there.

The delegation will be headed by Mayor Arthur Leggett. Accompanying him on the air trip will be Rev. Lewis E. Clarke, pastor of the Maple Ave. Baptist Church; A. J. Fambrough Jr. of the Chamber of Commerce and J. R. Jamieson, a Baptist lay leader.

John Browning, a member of the staff of Gov. Orval E. Faubus, will join the group in Little Rock.

When 18 members of a Smackover-Baptist youth group on a 4,000 mile tour found themselves stranded in the city for several days because of a broken-down bus, Waynesboro residents entertained them with tours and a watermelon feast.

A deacon of the Waynesboro Baptist Church paid a hospital bill for one of the girls who became ill during the layover.

The Virginians will meet the Arkansans with a parade and banquet, then salute them with a breakfast Friday.

It Was Just a Hole in the Ground, But Couple of Men Made It Magical

By HAL BOYLE

TOWNSEND, Tenn. (AP)—Fortune is where you find it, but it takes a lot of imagination to see a profitable future in a worthless hole in the ground.

"Two mountain boys here had that kind of imagination—and the kind of courage that enabled them to follow a dream that made them the laughing stocks of the valley for years."

But today Harry Myers and Bill Vananda are the proprietors of Tuckaleechee Caverns, one of the country's successful commercial caves.

The age-old cavern and its bubbling brook haunted the childhood of the two friends.

"We played Tom Sawyer in the main passage as kids," recalled Myers. "We explored it for three quarters of a mile, sometimes wriggling on our bellies, and lighting our way with home-made lamps—pop bottles filled with kerosene."

In 1949, while drinking coffee in a Maryville College hangout, the pair fell to reminiscing about the cavern and decided to try to turn it into a tourist attraction.

The project did take a lot of gumption. Nobody would lend them money. Each of the young men was married and had two children. They went to Alaska and labored on construction jobs there to raise funds.

After four years of lonely toil—the two men carried in hundreds of tons of sand, cement and gravel on their backs to build steps and passageways—they opened the cave in 1953.

That first year the cave had only 2,000 visitors, and Myers and Vananda glumly wondered whether those who had laughed at them were right after all.

But they stubbornly worked on widening passageways, and the next year discovered one of the largest cavern rooms in the East. That turned out to be their real bonanza.

The cave now draws 30,000 or more visitors annually and as Harry wryly observed, "The same fellows who called us fools now say, 'I knew you had a good thing there when you started.'"

What is "the biggest headache of a commercial cave proprietor?" "It's that one out of every 150 visitors—and usually it's an adult, not a teen ager—who wants to break off one of the rock formations for a souvenir," said Harry.

"Water has to drip 100 years to make a single cubic inch of stalagmite. It may take nature 10,000 years to form just one small piece of worthless stone. It has no meaning except in the cave where it grew."

Candidate Is Frugal; Has No 'Phone

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Governatorial candidate David A. Cox has a campaign headquarters now, but it hasn't got a telephone.

The wife of the farmer from Weiner explained today: "It would be just too expensive." She said she and her husband have been trying to campaign and farm at the same time.

"When we asked about a phone," she said, "they said the deposit would be $1,000. 'And I can see why they would ask that kind of deposit. After all, long distance telephone calls can soon run up a big bill and the company does have to protect itself."

"But we decided that we'd get along without one. We're trying to prove that people like us—farmers—can get into a political campaign and make a race without spending a lot of money," she said.

"We're not professionals like the other candidates, but this has been most rewarding to us," Mrs. Cox said. "We've met people we never would have met if we Cox said. 'We've met people we never would have met if we hadn't been in the race.'"

Ike Overseas to Be Civil But Tough

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said in a shipboard interview today that he would carry abroad

a message that the United States wants peace, but will not be pushed around.

He talked with newsmen as he and his wife and two grandchildren prepared to sail for Europe on the Queen Elizabeth.

It is his first trip abroad as a private citizen since 1928.

Eisenhower and his family plan to visit England, France, Denmark, Germany, Sweden and Iceland, in which the British government has allocated him space for life.

He will address a teachers conference at Stockholm on July 31.

"I hope to carry to such a body the message that we are trying to produce peace, that we are ready to be conciliatory, but not to be pushed around," Eisenhower said.

Interviewed in the huge vessel's veranda cafe, the former President said he believed most Americans are "fine ambassadors of American hopes and aspirations abroad."

PICNICS FOR SUMMER FUN

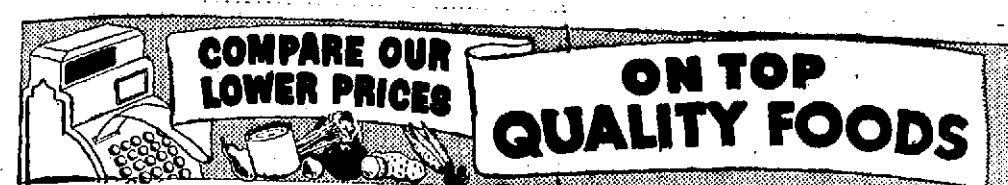

The time for picnics is here when the family jumps into the car and drives to a favorite spot. Whether it's the beach, a lake or just a quiet place in the woods, eating out of doors is always a treat and with so much equipment available today, picnics can be true feasts. The old time sandwich picnic has expanded to include all kinds of foods that can be transported in ice chests and coolers, cooked over camp stoves or grills and main dishes and beverages carried in vacuum bottles.

Outdoor menus often include hamburgers, frankfurters, stews, salads of all kinds as well as sandwiches. But no matter what comes first a picnic is not complete without some fresh juicy fruit to top it off. Refreshing fruit to carry whole fresh fruit which takes up a lot of space why not plan individually packed polyethylene bags of cut-up fruit.

This is possible now because of Fruit-Fresh, an ascorbic acid mixture, which keeps the fruit from turning dark and insures its fresh flavor. All you do is cut up the fruit; toss it in a Fruit-Fresh mixture and turn into individual bags. Then seal and refrigerate until ready to go. Carry it to the picnic in a cooler or ice chest or if you do not have either of these use an insulated bag.

For the cut-up fruit use a combination of peaches, pears, bananas, melon pieces, berries or any other of your family's favorites. For each 1 cup of cut-up fruit use 1 tablespoon ascorbic acid mixture dissolved in about 4 tablespoons water and toss the fruit in it or if you wish to sugar the fruit, mix the ascorbic acid mixture with the sugar and toss with the fruit.

Embattled Rice Farmer Files Suit

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Dermott rice farmer James Weir filed suit in Federal District Court at Little Rock Tuesday asking that the Agriculture Department be ordered to show him records of acreage allotments.

Weir also renewed his fight for higher acreage allotments and asked the court to send his case back to a review committee of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Weir, whose 994-acre farm was sold at auction April 17 to satisfy a $16,972 judgment for overplanting crop acreage, has had a running battle with the government, claiming that allotments are unconstitutional.

The farm was purchased by C. J. Wyly, a Lake Providence, La. attorney, but the $60,000 purchase price has not yet been deposited with the government.

U.S. Attorney Robert D. Smith said Tuesday he has granted Wyly a few more days to pay the purchase price. No definite deadline was set.

Weir has pending against him a $25,891 lawsuit charging overplanting of his 1961 rice crop. He also has judgments of $10,244 and $1,218 against him for overplanting his 1960 crop.

Smith said he would petition the court to hold the $60,000 farm purchase price until all the cases were settled if Weir did not pay the judgments on time.

The Tuesday suit stemmed from Weir's attempts to study ASCS allotment records given him in Chi-

Ask City Vote on Primary Day

HAZEN, Ark. (AP)—Seven candidates for municipal office have filed suit asking that a Democratic primary be held for Hazen city offices in conjunction with the July 31 state primary.

The Prairie County Democratic Central Committee rejected a petition Monday asking that the primaries be held at the same time. More than 200 persons signed the petitions last April.

The suit was filed by Charles Jenkins, a candidate for mayor; Everett Hall, Joe Harper, Everett Adams, Melvin Hula, Bill Sample and James Phifer, candidates for alderman.

Hot County, the ASCS has refused to allow him to see certain of these records, he alleges.

Nuclear Ban Sought by Non-Allies

By LOYAL GOULD

GENEVA (AP)—Nonaligned nations were expected to appeal again today at the 17-nation disarmament conference for the major nuclear powers to agree speedily on a permanent ban on nuclear weapon tests.

Indian delegate Arthur Lal told the conference Tuesday the Soviet and U.S. delegates have agreed in speeches that a test ban must be concluded, but he said he was "skeptical about their good words."

"Test series has followed test series," he said, "and I have heard rumors that additional high-altitude test series will be carried out."

Lal also said internationally renowned scientists have changed their views on the danger of nuclear fallout.

"There is now more peril involved in fallout than was thought in the past, and it is now time for the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union to prove what thought the United States had accepted—as a basis for negotiations—the compromise test ban proposals put forward by the eight nonaligned conference members last April. But he said he apparently was wrong, judging from a statement last week by Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Rusk said that recent developments in the detection of underground explosions might result in progress in the test ban negotiations. Lal said this raised the question of whether the United States was still working on the basis of the neutralist proposal or had reverted to the draft treaty it submitted last year.

U.S. delegate Arthur H. Dean told Lal the United States had welcomed the eight-nation memorandum but not as the only basis for negotiation. Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin told Lal that the Russians accepted the neutralist memorandum as the sole basis for negotiations. His statement drew a quick response from British delegate Joseph B. Godber that in test ban committee sessions the Western Alliance had tried to negotiate on the eight-nation memorandum but the Soviets refused.

U. A. Declines Argument on Institute

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—The University of Arkansas said Tuesday it did not want to wrangle with Winthrop Rockefeller, chairman of the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission, over speed of progress of its Graduate Institute of Technology. Rockefeller, who is also chairman of the institute's advisory council, has said he doesn't think GIT is progressing fast enough.

"I think we are all disappointed that GIT hasn't moved faster," he said last week. Rockefeller cited a lack of "imagination and vigor," but said this was not a criticism of the current staff and its head.

The university released Tuesday a report reviewing the history of GIT. The report pointed out that the institute has progressed from having one commuting staff member in 1958 when it opened at Little Rock to eight staff members and 18 graduate assistants this year.

The institute's primary purpose is to offer industrial employees a place to obtain graduate instruction. But it also cooperates with industry in research.

SHORTY A 2-Minute Story © 1962 by NEA, Inc.

INSTALLMENT PLAN By STEVE APRIL

After 21 years of marriage Laura and Hank had only one thing in common. They disliked each other. It was neither all bitterness nor pure hatred. Rather it was the sum total of a number of petty matters which had gone wrong. Mostly it was money trouble. Hank was a gay type when he had a loose dollar, and Laura loved to "bail" herself, but they rarely had an extra buck.

Although she was a thrifty woman who would often shop all day for a 6-cent item, it wasn't the few cents but her love of going from store to store, window to window, which made her shop so hard. When it came to buying the expensive items, the car, the radio, the washer, she and Hank would earnestly talk it over for week and generally end on the verge of an explosion. Hank believed in time payments and this was a kick in Laura's little shopping habit.

They nearly divorced over their TV set. It cost $20-$25 down and only $15 a month. As Hank said, "We can easily afford $15 a month with little strain. Just cut going to the movies TV set means a movie in our living room and—"

"But I saw the same set for $175 cash!" Laura argued. "That's saving $90. We can take the money from our savings account and we certainly can't afford to waste 90 bucks."

However Hank had already ordered the set and so that was that, except it was a week before she spoke to him again. The same things happened with their car, the vacuum, even the electric kitchen mixer.

When the top step of their inside stairs came loose, they agreed the entire staircase would have to be fixed at once. Hank told Laura to take care of it. She rushed around town, happily seeing carpenters and building men, getting estimates and being very busy. She finally found a young carpenter who carefully examined the stairs and said he would do the job for $40.

This was on a Friday afternoon. Friday was their favorite TV night and she didn't get a chance to tell Hank until Saturday morning, when they both slept late.

"Laura," Hank said slowly, still half-asleep, "I told you one of the men on the job has a portable TV we look at during lunch. Well, there's this big contractor who advertises, you know—he'll add a room, redo the porch, anything around the house for..."

"Hank, you didn't!" Hank nodded.

"But you promised I could handle this!"

"I meant to tell you Thursday but it slipped my mind. After all, this is a big outfit, they'll do a better job. What's more, they stand back of all their work. They're coming Monday morning. One hundred twenty-five dollars for the job, but only $12 a month..."

White with rage, Laura walked out of her bedroom. She went downstairs to the kitchen and began to weep while she put the coffee on. The doorbell rang, two short rings meaning the mailman had left something in their box. Still weeping she got the mail. Hank called down from the bathroom, "Anything in the mail?"

"A bill for your insurance premium and some kind of sports catalog," Laura said, her voice like ice.

"I been waiting for that catalog, thinking of buying a new spinning reel. I'll be right down."

Hank's last sentence was an understatement. Forgetting about the broken step in his hurry, he came tumbling down the stairs to land in an unconscious heap at the bottom, practically at Laura's feet. The broken step came lazily and noisily sliding down after him. Picking the thick board up, Laura gave him a horrible crack

She was a thrifty woman who would shop all day for a 50-cent item.

on the back of his neck. Dropping the board, she silently danced on it, her slippers erasing any possible fingerprints.

Staring down at her dead husband, she waved the insurance bill at him and said in a voice full of cold hysteria, "I'm sure you didn't mind my killing you like this, Hank. After all, I was only carrying out your philosophy: kill now and get paid later!"

Carolínians End Tour of Arkansas

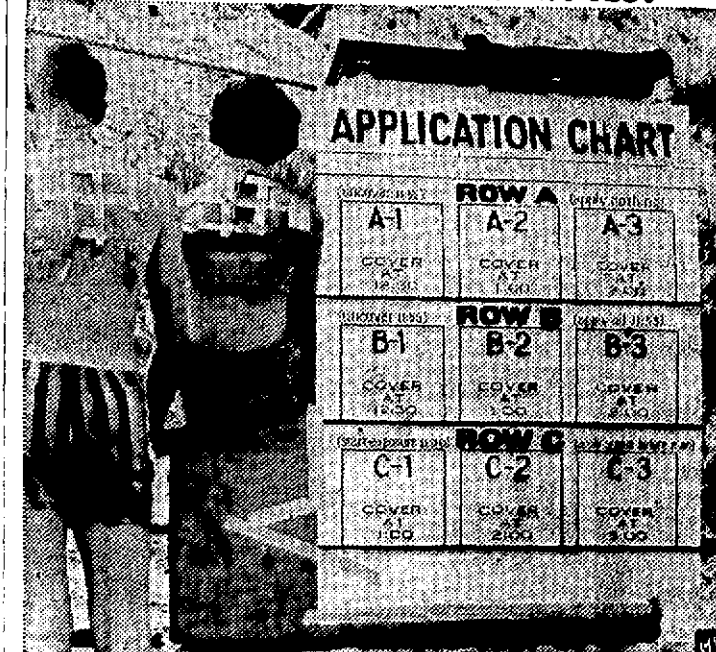

FORREST CITY, Ark. (AP)—Thirty-eight South Carolina bankers and businessmen were expected to cross into Mississippi today after a tour of Arkansas agricultural operations.

The group, making a five-day tour of the Mid-South, Tuesday inspected two of Arkansas' largest farm operations, the Felton Plantation near Marianna and the Lee Wilson Plantation at Wilson.

They were guests of the National Bank of Eastern Arkansas during their tour of the Forrest City area.

Monday the group spent the day in Memphis looking over a tire factory and a plantation. The tour ends Saturday at New Orleans.

VOLUNTEERS TAKE SUNTAN TEST

Almost five hundred volunteers recently submitted themselves to ultraviolet rays of the sun for a study conducted by a group of eminent skin specialists. The results of the tests proved the efficiency of a sunscreensing agent as a protection against ultraviolet rays under actual sea-side conditions.

According to a report in Southwestern Medicine, the official journal of the Southwestern Medical Association, each volunteer by means of specially cut tape to frame the patches, was subjected to simultaneous exposure with no protection, with bronzed cream and with baby oil. A team of trained nurses applied the oil and cream and doctors and nurses rigidly timed the exposure.

The results as shown in the doctors' report are that twenty-four hours after exposure ninety percent of the areas with no protection or with baby oil had definite vivid or painful redness with only two hour exposure. None of the areas protected with the cream developed painful redness after four hours exposure. Upon examination six days later eighty-five percent of the areas protected with the cream developed a deep tan.

Orders on Estes Came From D. C.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A farm aid official says orders from Washington cleared the way for Billie Sol Estes' cotton acreage allotment deals in Oklahoma, over Oklahoma protests.

The Senate investigations subcommittee made public today that testimony taken behind closed doors Friday from Samuel A. Shelby, an Oklahoma farm aid official. The subcommittee explained that Shelby's health might not have withstood the strain of public hearing.

Shelby is chief of the production adjustment section of the Oklahoma Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee.

The Senate subcommittee's hearings are in recess until Wednesday. A House subcommittee was checking into charges made in the government's grain storage program as a result of the Estes case.

The cotton allotment deals about which Shelby complained were canceled by the Agriculture Department last spring after Estes' indictment on fraud charges in connection with other activities. The 57-year-old Ponca, Tex., financier has since been declared bankrupt.

Shelby swore he received a telephone call from Tom Miller, his superior in the Agriculture Department in Washington, on April 25, 1961. He said Miller ordered transfer of Oklahoma cotton acreage allotments to Texas for acquisition by Estes and others, and denied Oklahoma ASC authorities any right to block the transfers.

Shelby said "I would have considered it insubordination" to refuse to comply with Miller's directions.

He said the Oklahoma authorities had warned Washington officials previously that the Estes' deals were a scheme and a device to circumvent the law.

Shelby told of participating in a six-hour meeting at Dallas, Tex., on Jan. 16, 1961, at which he said there was discussion of Estes and his deals for ostensibly selling Texas land to Oklahoma farmers, then leasing it back after they had transferred cotton planting allotments to it.

"Was there anybody there that contended that these transfers were legal and valid?" asked the chairman, Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark.

"No, I don't think so," Shelby answered.

He said there was a report, among other things, that one farmer—not mentioned by name—had told Oklahoma investigators of his deal with Estes: "All I have done is sell my allotment." Allotment sales are forbidden by law.

U. S. Won't Let Troops Quit Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP)—In words destined for Premier Khrushchev, President Kennedy is reported to have told the Soviet ambassador that the Soviet Union's demand for removal of U.S. troops from West Berlin is totally unacceptable.

Kennedy met with Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin for an hour Tuesday night in his office at the White House. They also discussed Laos, disarmament and the problem of a ban on nuclear tests.

Dobrynin said as he climbed into his limousine to return to his embassy, "It would be improper for me to comment."

Kennedy intervened personally in U.S.-Soviet talks on the Berlin situation in the evident hope of overcoming any lingering belief in Moscow that the troop issue may be negotiable or that the United States would yet yield to threats and pressures and accept some kind of compromise for West Berlin's military protection.

The President's move came two days before Secretary of State Dean Rusk leaves for Geneva where he plans to talk over the East-West Berlin stalemate with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko. The occasion for their gathering in Geneva will be the signing of accords on the neutralization of Laos.

The effect of Kennedy's action is to reinforce Rusk's position at a crucial stage of the U.S.-Soviet talks.

The talks which began last September are deadlocked. There is little hope in official quarters that the deadlock can be broken in the predictable future. There is some lingering hope that Khrushchev fully understands U.S. determination in support of West Berlin he may be willing to reach some agreement on what the diplomats call a "modus vivendi"—a way of living with the situation without stirring up major crises periodically.

It was authoritatively reported that Kennedy's main concern in the unusual session with Dobrynin was to emphasize personally the importance he attaches to the U.S. position that the Soviet demand for withdrawal of U.S. British and French troops from West Berlin is unacceptable.

Nixon Certified Governor Race

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Richard M. Nixon has been certified as the Republican candidate for governor of California.

Secretary of State Frank M. J. J. gave him a certificate Monday after Nixon turned in a statement of his personal campaign expenses, saying he had spent $1,056. His campaign committees previously reported expenses of more than $500,000 in the primary race.

Doctors May Soften Stand in Canada

SASKATOON, Sask. (AP)—Saskatchewan's striking doctors were reported softening their opposition to the provincial government's compulsory medical care plan today as they prepared to put their case before the ruling Socialist party's convention.

Dr. H. D. Dalgleish, president of the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons, was to speak at the doctors' views before the annual convention of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation (CCF).

His statement was scheduled to be taken today.

Dalgleish declined to comment on what he would say, but he observed that "there has been a medical organization has softened its position since the government are other ways of instituting the medical care plan into effect (medical care) insurance that has never been seriously considered by both parties."

It was learned Tuesday night that Dalgleish has been exchanging views on the dispute with provincial Premier Woodrow Lloyd. Neither Dalgleish nor Lloyd would disclose what the letters said, but a senior official of the doctors' college attached great importance to the exchange.

A college spokesman said the medical organization has softened its position since the government are other ways of instituting the medical care plan into effect (medical care) insurance that has never been seriously considered by both parties."

lege still wants suspension of the plan, which provides prepaid compulsory medical care insurance financed by personal assessments and taxes. All citizens in the province are covered by the plan with the government setting the doctors' fees.

American GIs in Europe used cigarettes as money during World War II, his was the most stable currency in France, Germany and Italy for two years after V-E Day.

Presidential Livestock on a Rampage

WEST BARNSTABLE, Mass. (AP)—Part of the Kennedy menagerie—a mare and three ponies—is back in the stable today after giving Barnstable police and volunteers a workout.

The animals, owned by Joseph P. Kennedy, the President's father, er, and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, escaped Tuesday from a farm where they are stabled for the family's use at the nearby Kennedy estate.

The mare was quickly tethered with a clothline by a farmer who saw her chomping apples from a tree.

The ponies cavorted about the countryside for nearly three hours before police and nearby residents rounded them up.

Walt Whitman, the poet, was a teetotaler.
